

THE VALUE OF RECERTIFICATION

CAOHC recertification of individuals conducting workplace hearing tests not only greatly enhances current regulatory requirements, but also greatly enhances their contribution to the entire occupational hearing conservation team through comprehensive training and on-going access to program resources. Certification provides nationally recognized credentials as a certified occupational hearing conservationist (CAOHC), as well as timely updates and valuable reference information concerning issues of interest - including current recommendations for preventing noise-induced hearing loss.

CAOHC RECERTIFICATION INCLUDES

- ⇒ The responsibilities of individuals of an Occupational Hearing Conservationist and the role of the Professional Supervisor of the audiometric monitoring component of hearing conservation programs.
- ⇒ Hearing conservation standards and regulations.
- ⇒ Employee education and motivation in hearing conservation.
- ⇒ Audiometric testing and follow-up of significant findings.
- ⇒ Record Keeping.
- ⇒ Selection, fitting, and use of hearing protection.
